In this "autobiography" of the mythological creator of labyrinths and artifacts, the father of technology and the first person (together with his son Ikar) who has flown, Dadalus speaks with us thousands of votes, through a man who has unique skills who has skills Unique that has unique skills that have unique skills that have a unique ability to bring, bring, bring, bring, bring, bring. This is for us. Michael Airtton is an English sculptor in the middle -20. century. He studied the technique of his great predecessor and repeated many of his exploitation for the first time, which he considered impossible. This book reflects on the topics of creation, innovation, dangerous and stimulating encounters of a person with the divine. Michael Airtton, one of the authors, calls the "Labyrinth Creator" one of his favorite books and says why you should read it. I contact you for more than three thousand years, I live at the intersection of fish and water, speaking with Dadalo, teacher, inventor and designer born in a family of completely extraterrestrial heroes who will appreciate the war especially in the world, where his colleagues created only to destroy The existence, he feels forced to escape. In this fictitious autobiography of Father Ikar "Creatures of Apollo", a brilliant but imperfect man, writer and sculptor Michael Airtton uses the stories of the past to create a myth of our time.
